

LOOK AT

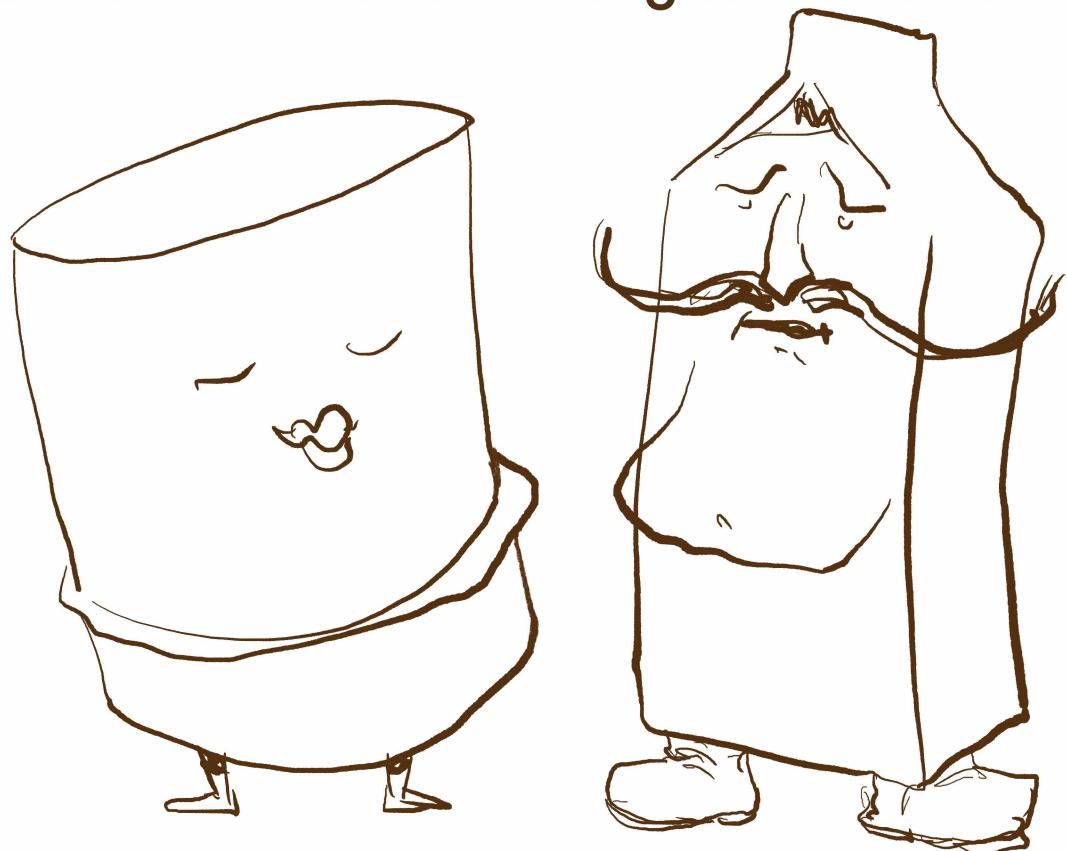

BrunoSS

This is Brunosso. He lives in a fjord in Norway.

Brunosso's mom is a big white cheese.

Brunosso's dad is a liter of milk.

Brunosso's favorite thing is attention.
When he gets attention, his head grows.

Luckily Brunosso is made of brown cheese, so when his head grows, he can just slice cheese off the top of his head with his little cheese slicer. Yum!

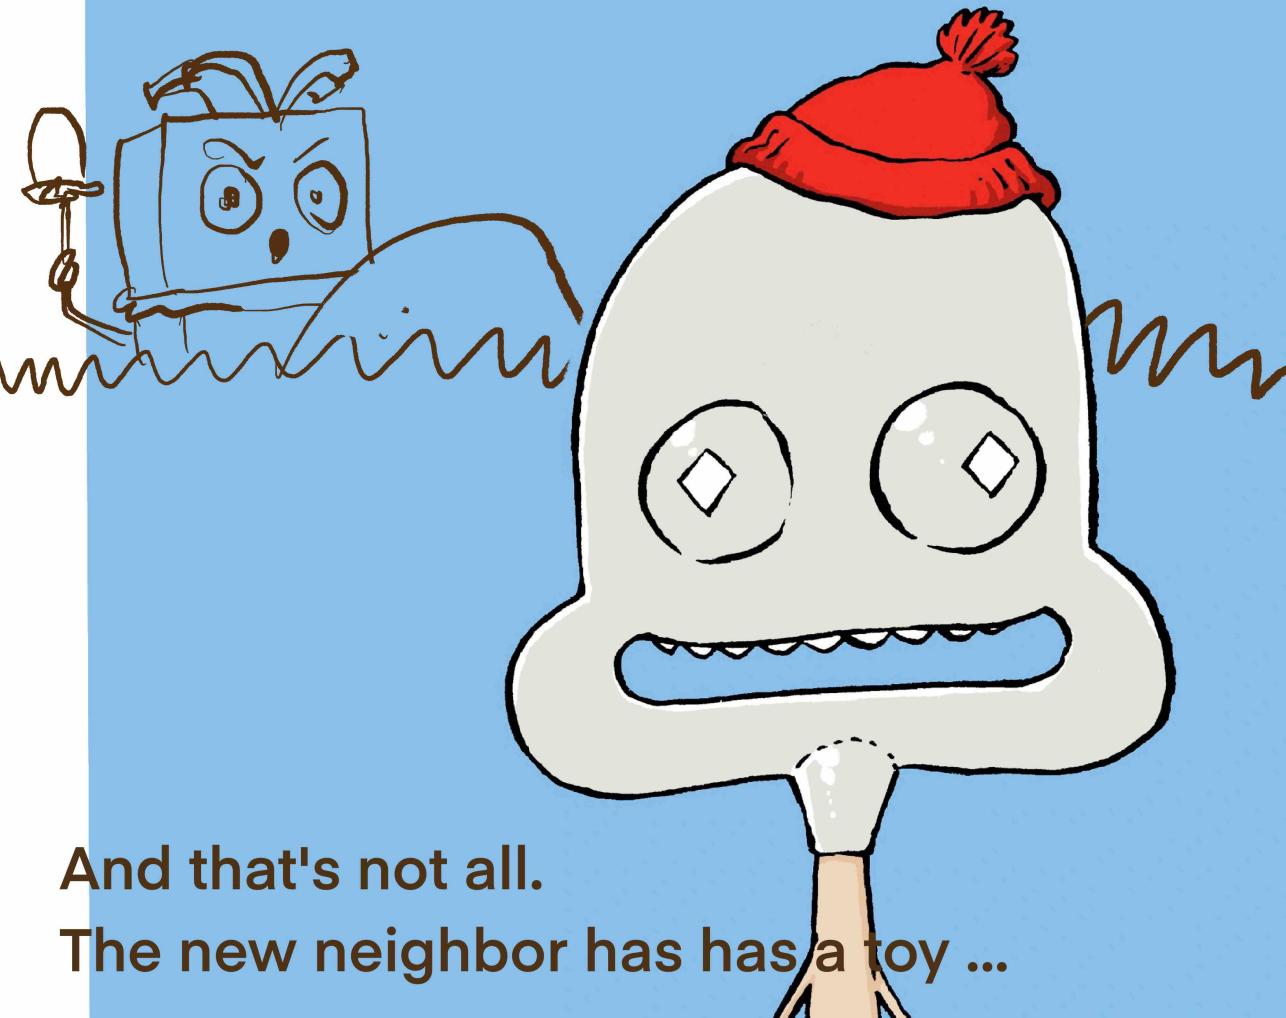

Brunosso loves his cheese slicer.

And he loves sharing slices of himself!

But one day a new neighbor moves in.

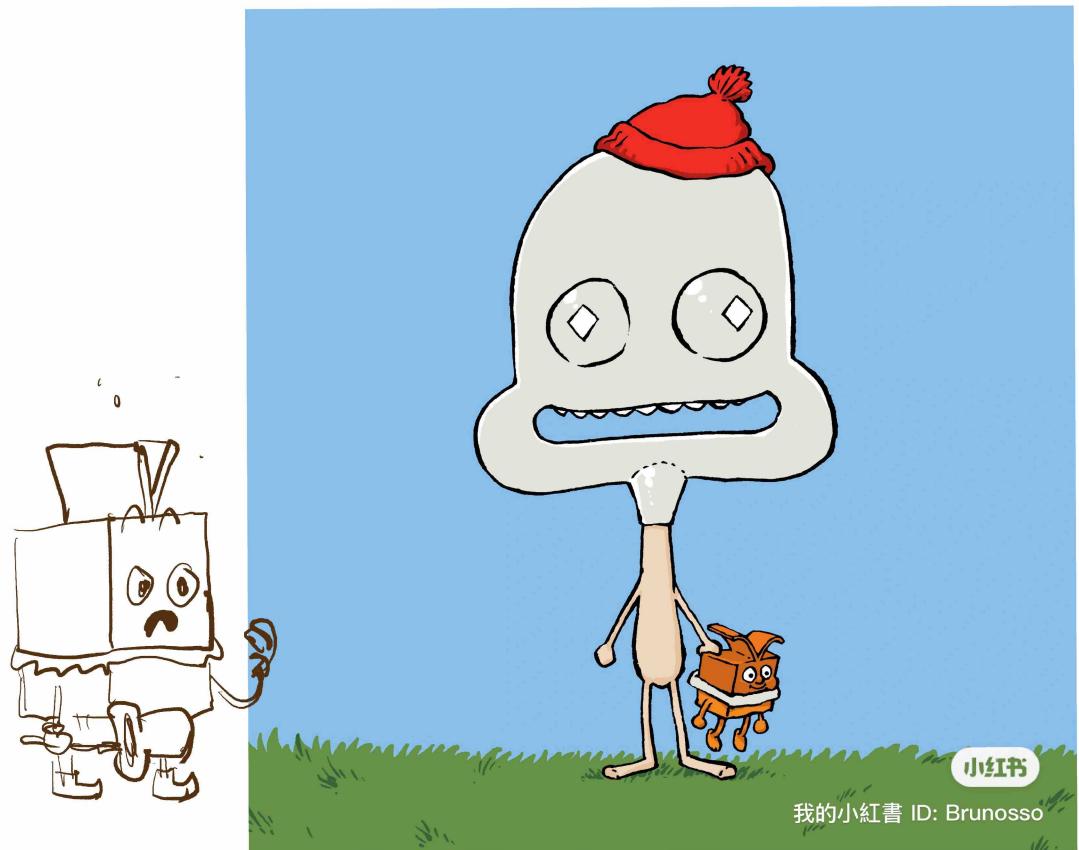

The new neighbor is a BIG cheese slicer.

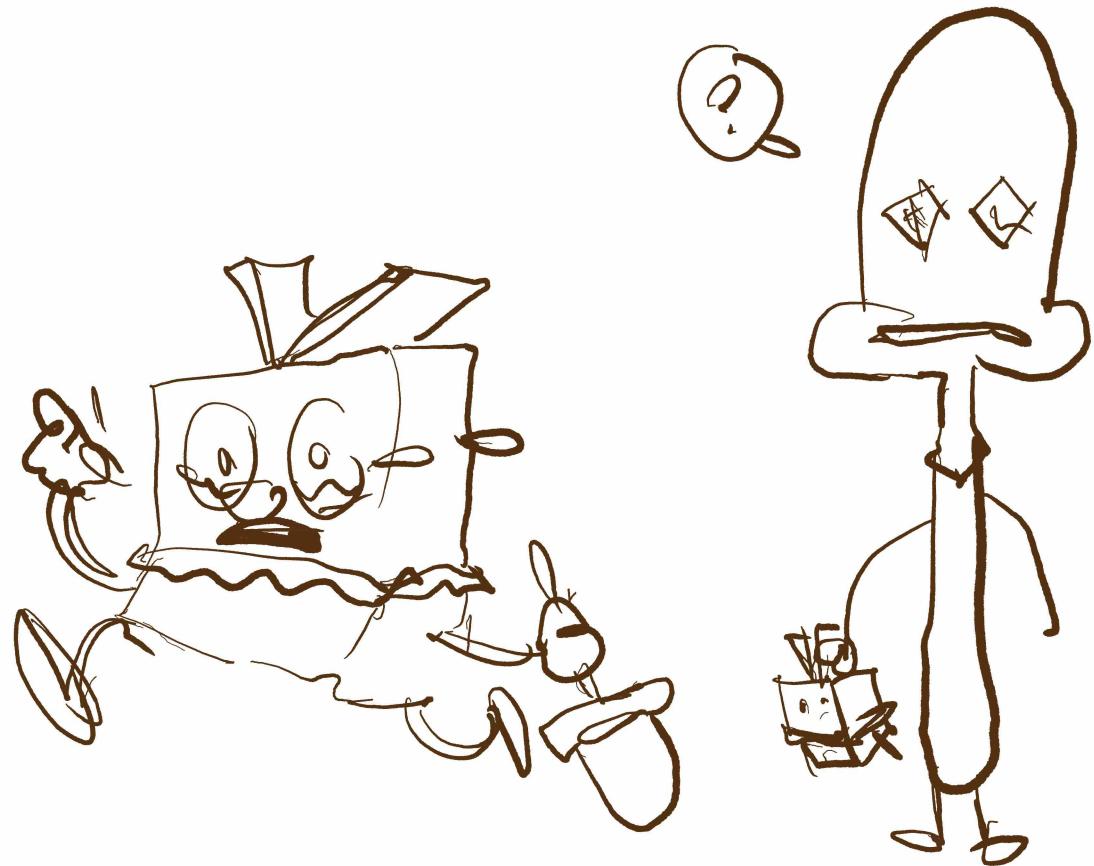

And that's not all.

The new neighbor has has a toy ...

and the toy looks JUST like a little Brunosso!

This is too much.
Brunosso runs back to his parents.

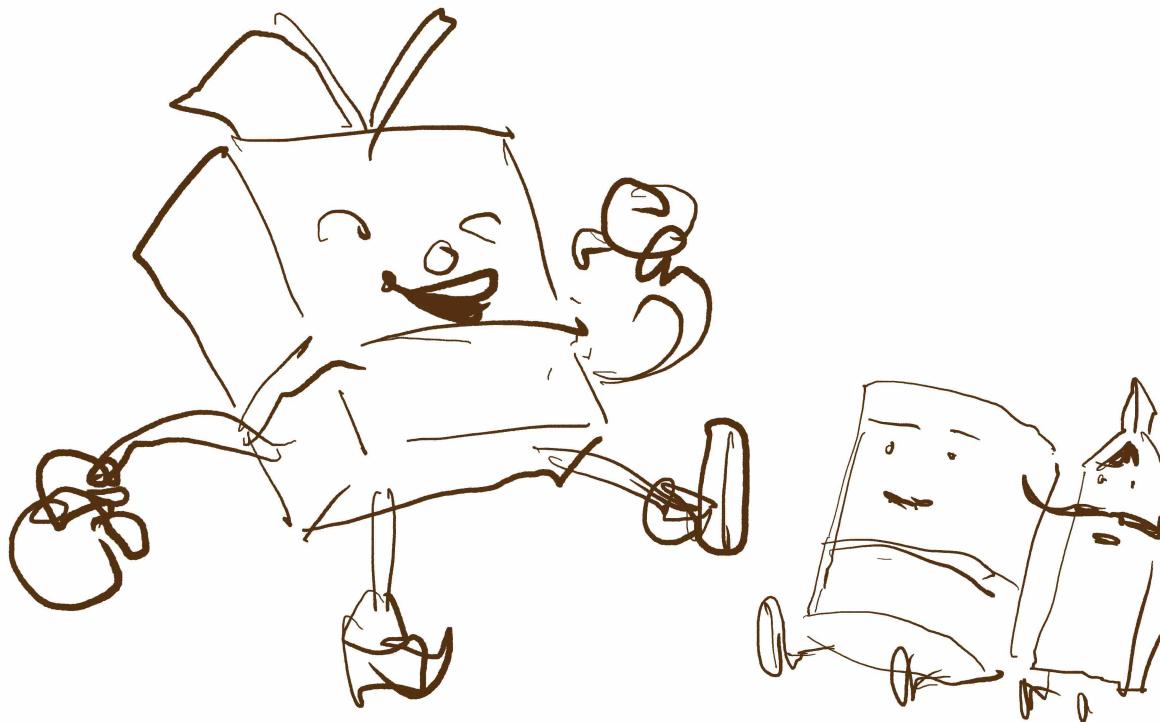

Brunosso cries a little bit. But his mom gives him a hug.

Then his dad sings him a song.
And Brunosso falls asleep.

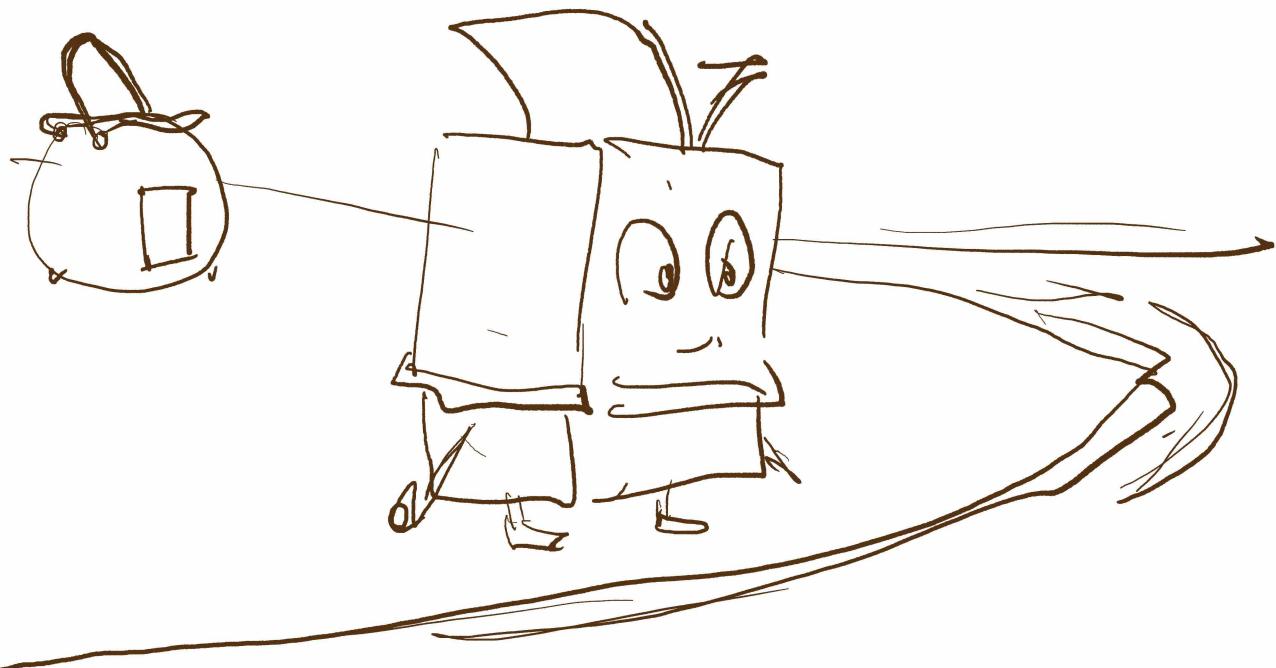

The next day, Brunosso wants attention even more than usual.

He dances and sings and pretends to fall.
He makes a lot of noise.

After four hours of this, mama white cheese and daddy liter-of-milk gently suggests that Brunosso can go and entertain others in the valley.

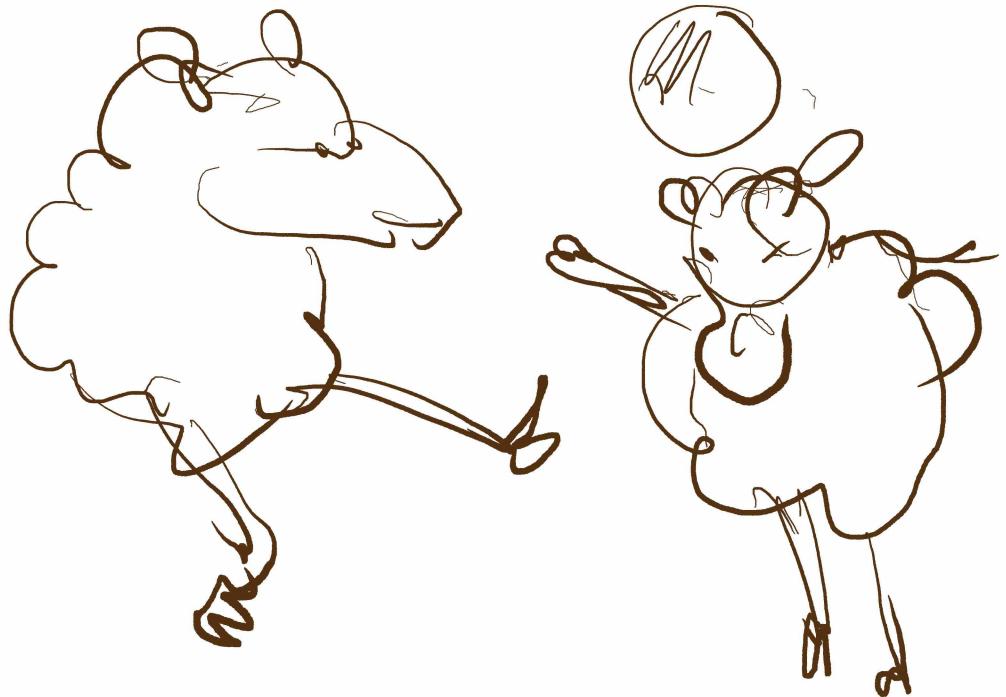

Brunosso goes to the fish to see if they want to be entertained.

But the fish are busy lifting weights.

Brunosso goes to the sheep, but the sheep are busy playing soccer.

Brunosso goes to the cow, but the cow is busy skiing.

Brunosso is grumpy.

Then he hears a voice from a tree.
It is the clever lynx!

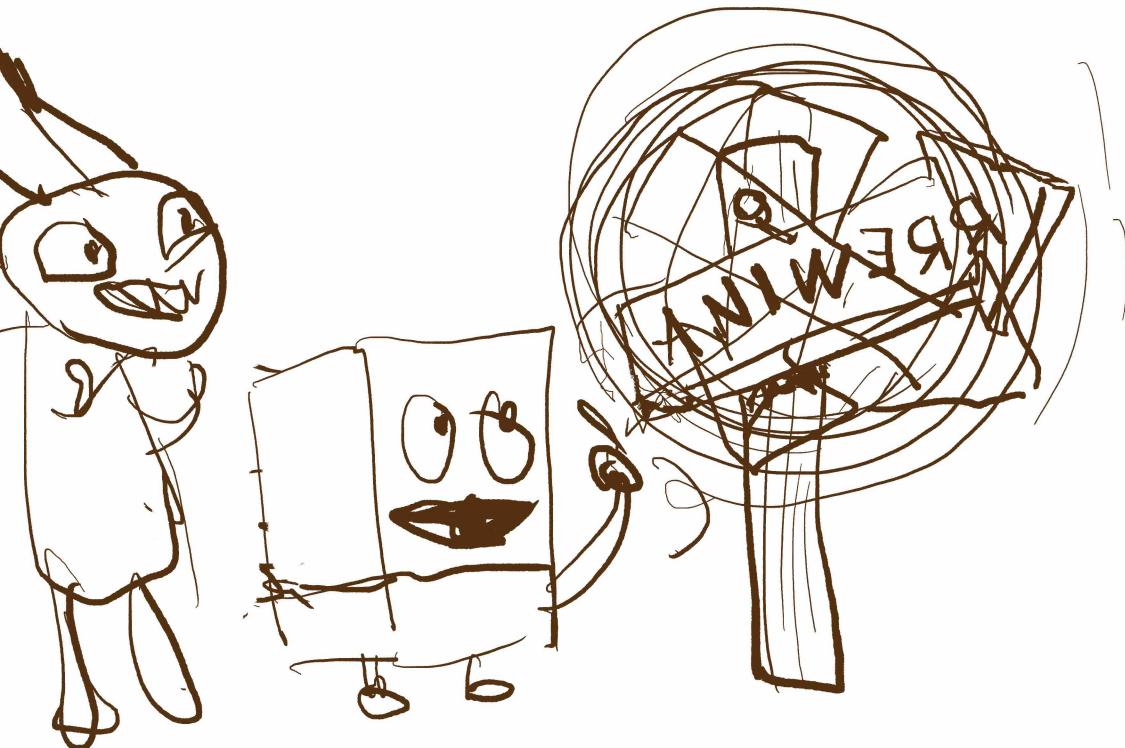

The lynx takes brunosso to a secret spot deep in the forest. There's a sign on a stick, and it says "ANYWHERE".

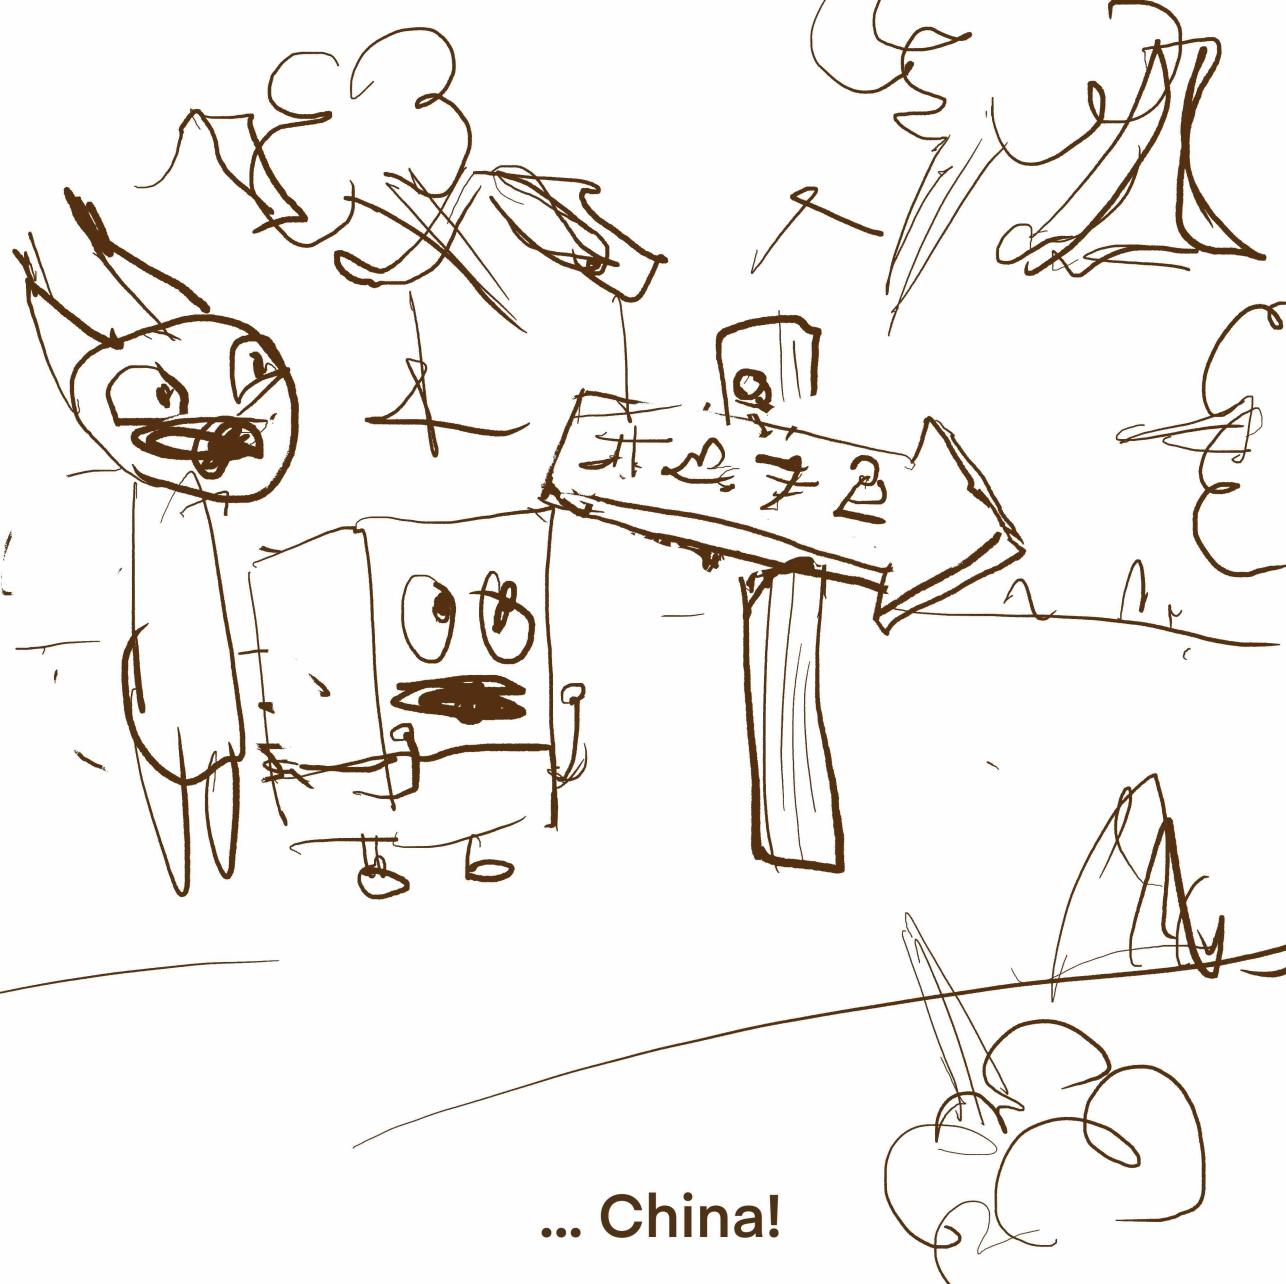

This street sign is magical, says the Lynx.
If you spin the arrow, it will take you anywhere!

Brunosso spins the sign ...

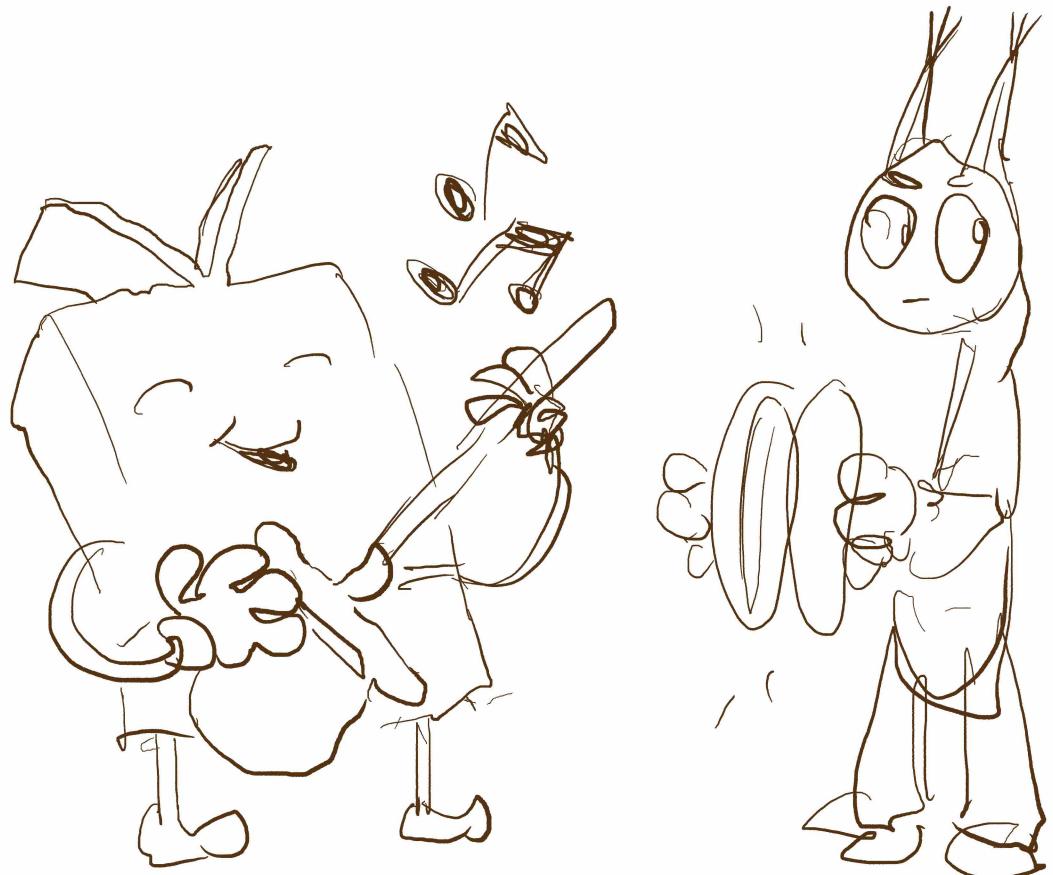

... and suddenly, he is in ...

... China!

Brunosso starts performing in the middle of the street.

At first, no-one stops.

But then more and more people stop and listen.

And even more people!

Now it is time for Brunosso to share of his cheese.

But his head has grown too tall! He can't reach it anymore!

Brunosso gives the cheese slicer to Lynx, but Lynx can't reach either. Now, even more people stop to look.

Too much! screams Brunosso.

They run back to the sign. Everyone runs after them, this is too exciting.

Lynx spins the sign. And everything around them disappears.

They run back to Brunosso's house. His parents know what to do!

But they are gone. On the door is a note.
"Out looking for Brunosso".

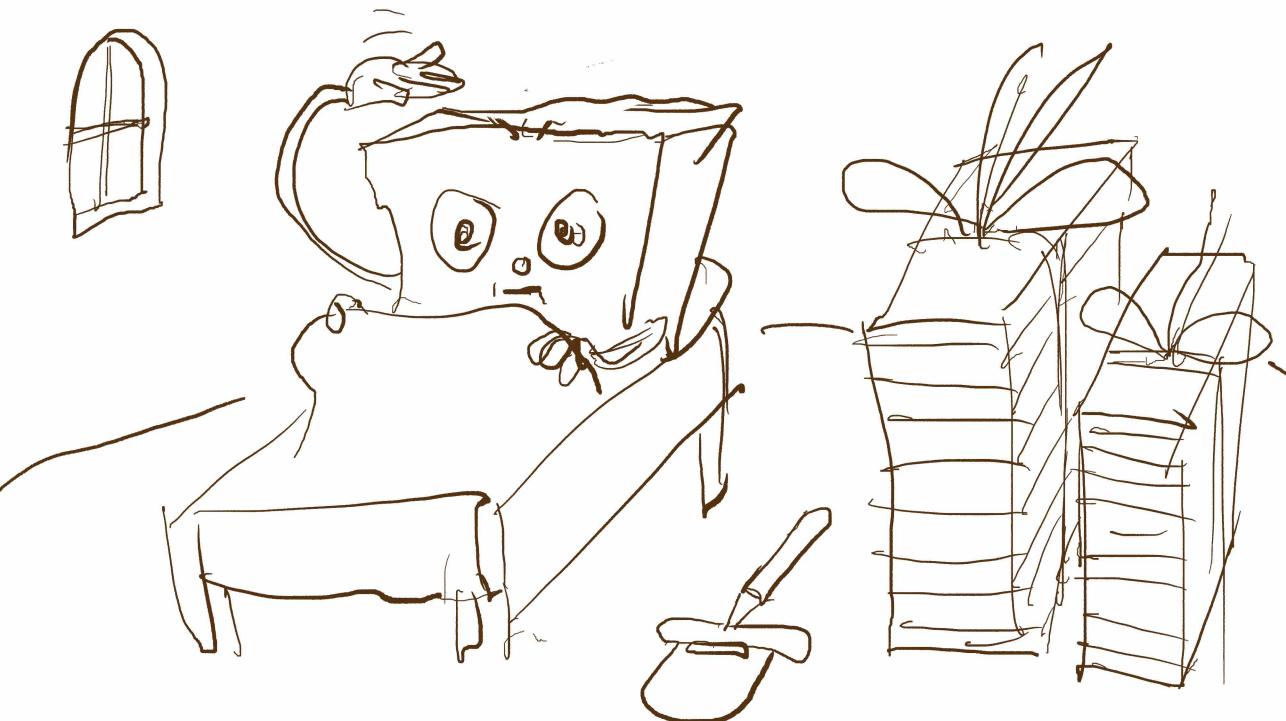

Brunosso passes out.

• • •

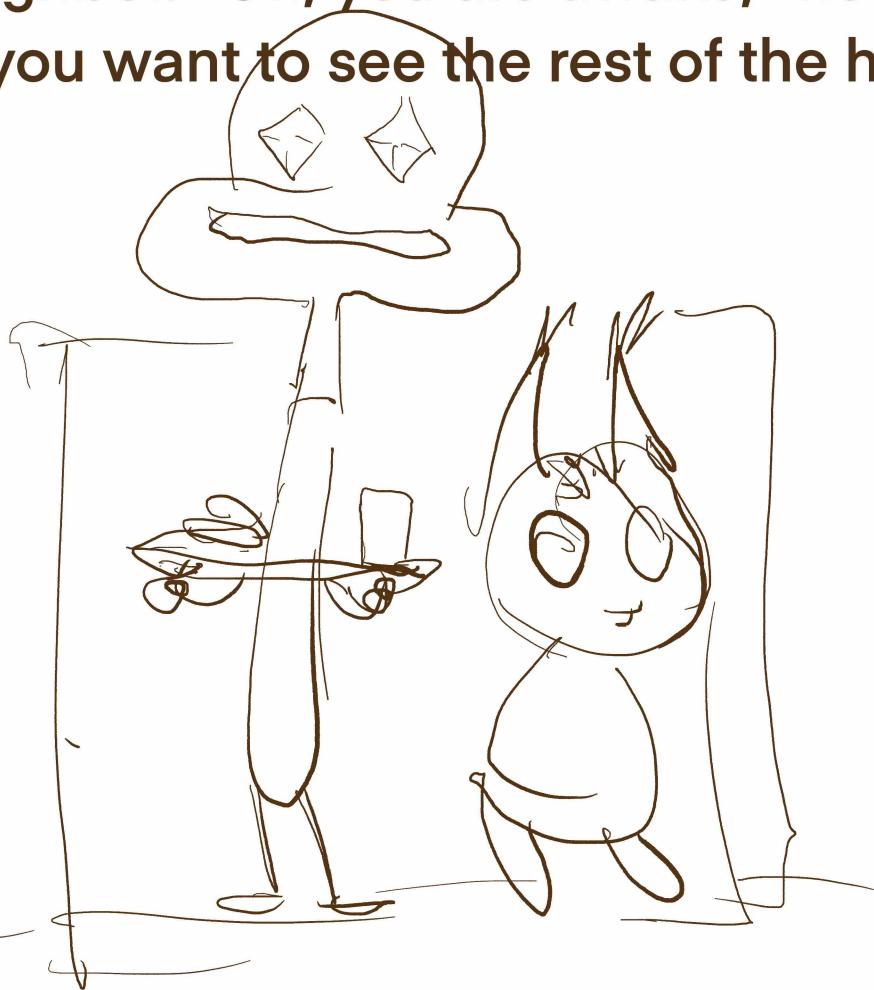

When he wakes up, he is in a bed in a house he's never been in before.

His head is back to normal.

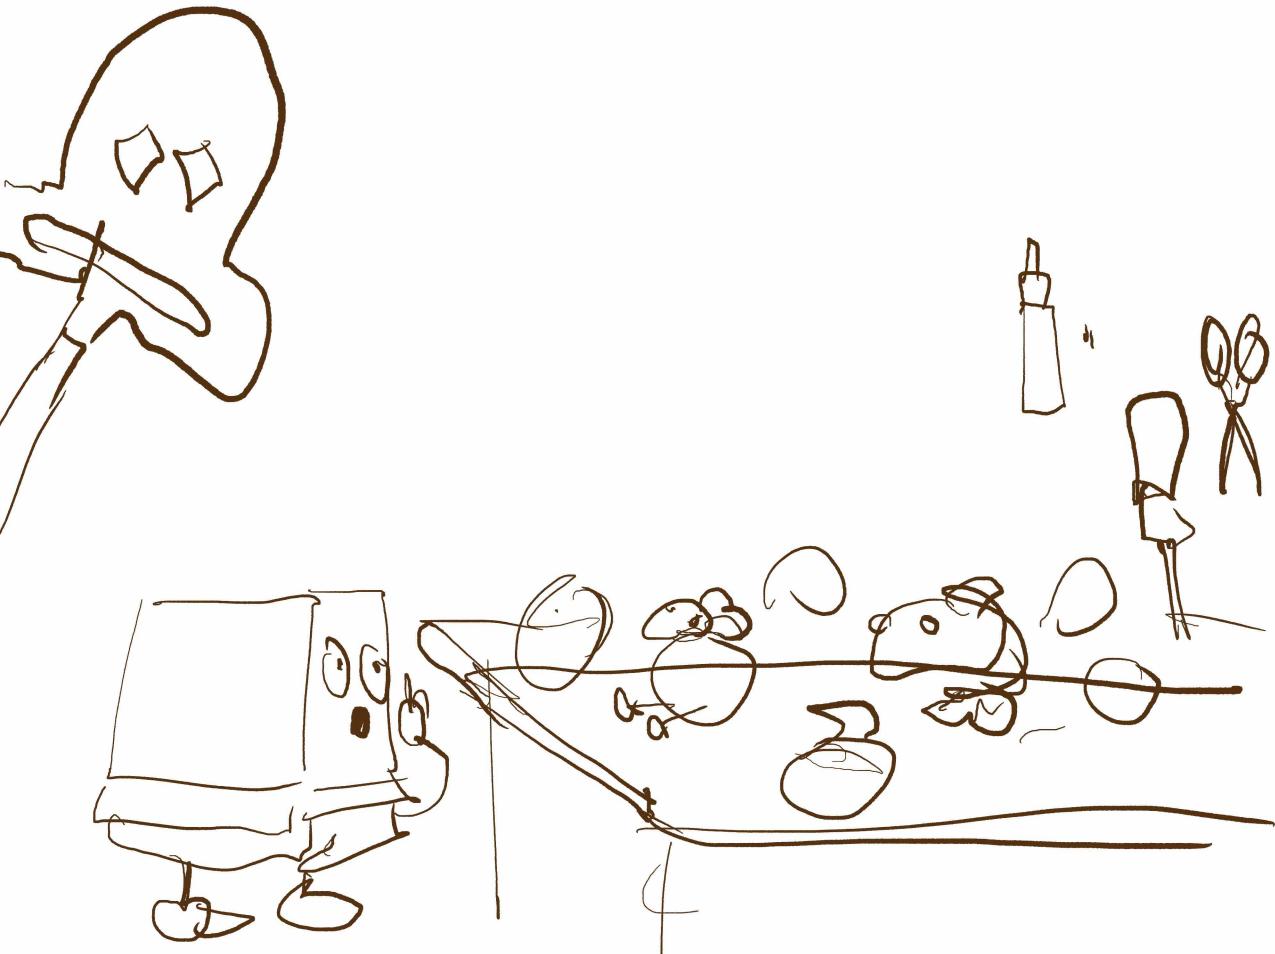

Next to the bed are stacks of brown cheese slices, wrapped in a pink ribbon.

The door opens. In comes the new neighbor. "Oh, you are awake," he says. "Do you want to see the rest of the house?"

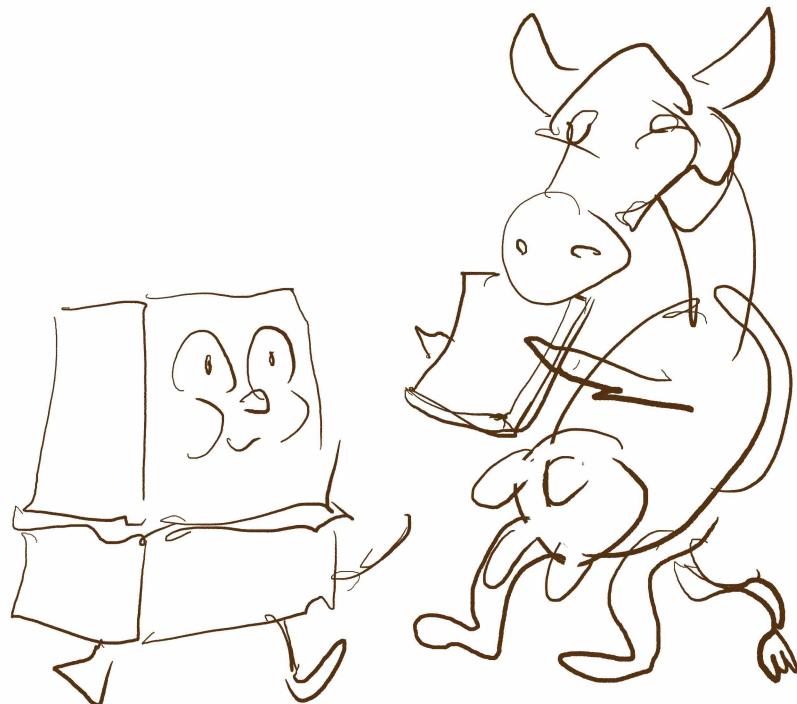

I am a toymaker, says the big cheese slicer.
I've made toys of everyone in the valley!

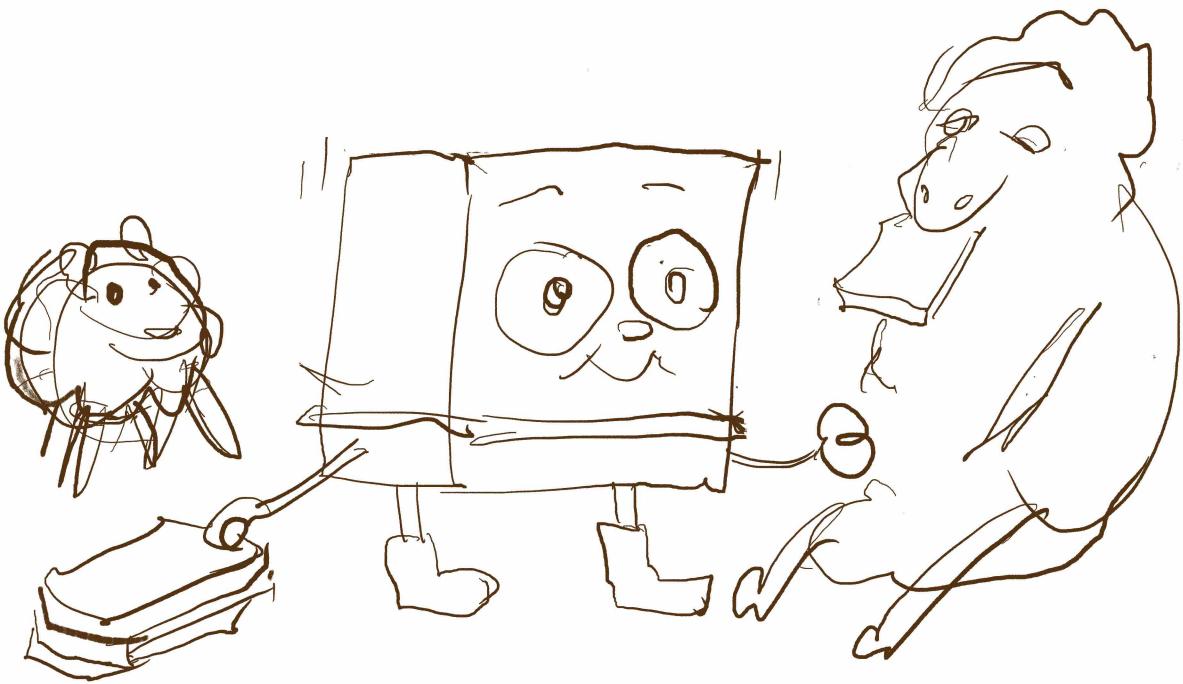

Now it is time to hand out cheese.

First to the cow, who is done with her skiing for today.

Then to the sheep, who have played football until now.

And then to the fish and the sea stars.

Everyone says thanks for the cheese.

All the attention makes Brunosso's head grow again, but not too much.

Just enough so he can fix his hair.

Good night, Brunosso!

